Re: Second Supplement to Application of T-Mobile USA, Inc. For Temporary Designation as an Eligible Telecommunications Carrier, WC Docket No. 03-109

Dear Ms. Dortch:

T-Mobile USA, Inc. ("T-Mobile") supplements its November 10, 2005 application for temporary designation as an eligible telecommunications carrier in the above-referenced proceeding (the "Application"), to set forth certain enhancements to the wireless service packages that T-Mobile proposes to offer to victims of Hurricane Katrina under the Commission's temporary wireless Lifeline program. As discussed below, T-Mobile clarifies and slightly modifies the two prepaid Lifeline service offerings it describes in the Application, and proposes two additional, new Lifeline service offerings for existing postpaid T-Mobile subscribers.

Prepaid Lifeline Offerings

The Application sets forth two prepaid wireless Lifeline service offerings to be made available to Hurricane Katrina victims. Unless otherwise stated below, the conditions set forth in the Application continue to apply to these offerings.

Under its first proposed, enhanced prepaid offering-eligible participants who are not existing T-Mobile customers would receive free of charge a prepaid service kit that includes one handset, a charger, a SIM card, a battery, a hands-free device, and prepaid calling cards valued at 410 minutes of voice service. T-Mobile also will include in each kit a Nokia 6010 handset (or one of the three handsets identified in the Application or another handset of similar value and technical capability as reasonably designated by T-Mobile in the event that consumer demand exceeds existing stock).

T-Mobile clarifies that under the second offering proposed in the Application, it will provide free of charge a kit of several prepaid calling cards valued approximately between 890 and 1300 minutes of voice service to eligible customers who already own a T-Mobile-compatible handset.¹

Postpaid Lifeline Offerings

T-Mobile also proposes two new Lifeline service offerings for its eligible, existing postpaid subscribers. Under the first offering, existing postpaid T-Mobile subscribers who do not need a new handset and SIM card will receive a $130 account credit. Under the second offering, existing postpaid T-Mobile subscribers who need to replace their handsets and SIM cards will receive a Nokia 6010 handset and a $65 account credit.

These credits will apply to charges incurred only on a going-forward basis and each is contingent on verification of the subscriber's eligibility to receive temporary Lifeline support. The actual amount of services covered by the credits will vary, depending upon each subscriber's service plan. To qualify, the existing subscriber's account must be no more than thirty (30) days in arrears. Any terms and conditions under the subscriber's existing service contract will continue to apply, but no additional contractual commitment will be required to obtain the credit.

If you have any questions regarding this supplement or T-Mobile's Application, please contact the undersigned.

Yours truly,

/s/ Cheryl A. Tritt

¹ If the customer activates simultaneously a sufficient number of prepaid cards to bring the customer's prepaid account to a total of $100 or more, he/she will qualify automatically for "Gold Rewards" status, which increases the number of minutes available by approximately 15 percent. Gold Rewards accounts also expire one year from activation. See T-Mobile's Pay As You Go Rates, available at www.t-mobile.com/plans/default.asp?tab=payasyougo, for more information.
